PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

"Mene, Mene, tekel upharson" is ever visible upon life's banquet wall. Hopefully, Lowell has not failed your critical expectancies as you have not failed its academic judgment. In this year of student power demonstrations, of flower children choking on cousin Timothy's weeds, Lowell students have demonstrated a sense of humor and humility, seeking always the absolutes of conscience whose eternal commitment is to truth, justice and academic excellence.

May I be permitted a paternal blessing upon my children of the class of '68, those of the spirit as well as of the flesh. God bless you all.

Daniel H. O'Leary

DEDICATION

If it is true, as Plato said, that man can achieve immortality through the works he performs in his lifetime, then Professor Thomas Casey is certainly one who has accomplished this. Those of us who knew him will long regard those hours with him as treasures, for he radiated a sincerity which came to permeate his students.

As a small, inadequate token of our esteem for this man, we, the Senior Class, dedicate this year-book to Thomas Casey.

"The years teach much which the days never know."
Ralph Waldo Emerson

At the Little Theatre, the Lowell State Seniors, Class of 1968, were officially invested into the academic life of the college. Dr. Yeo gave the guest speech, to the seniors. Music was provided by the students from the music department. After the investiture the Seniors and their parents were served coffee and cakes in the cafeteria.

SENIOR INVESTITURE

1968

We are often told, in a variety of ways that life is a drama unfolding on the stage of the world, and including each of us in a co-starring role. It is difficult, however, for us to apply this philosophy to life because we are each caught up in our separate worlds, and cannot see that each world is a part of the whole. The world is simply too large to come into the perspective of the individual.

One of the scenes which we do have in common, however, and which is within our comprehension in college; a sub-plot enriching the main plot. Although we retain our individual worlds, still we work together here. It is perhaps easier in college than on any other "set" to realize the synchronization of many lives and many worlds into an all-inclusive whole.

“How often are we to die before we go quite off this stage? In every friend we lose a part of ourselves and the best part.”
